

Collared Lizards

The collared lizard has a large head and two black bands on its neck that look like a collar. This colorful lizard can be turquoise or greenish and has yellow toes! The males have yellow or orange throats. The females can have orange-red bands on the sides of their bodies and necks.

Collared lizards can run really fast—up to 16 miles per hour. They run on their hind legs, with their tail and forelimbs raised. When they run, collared lizards look like miniature Tyrannosaurus-Rexes.

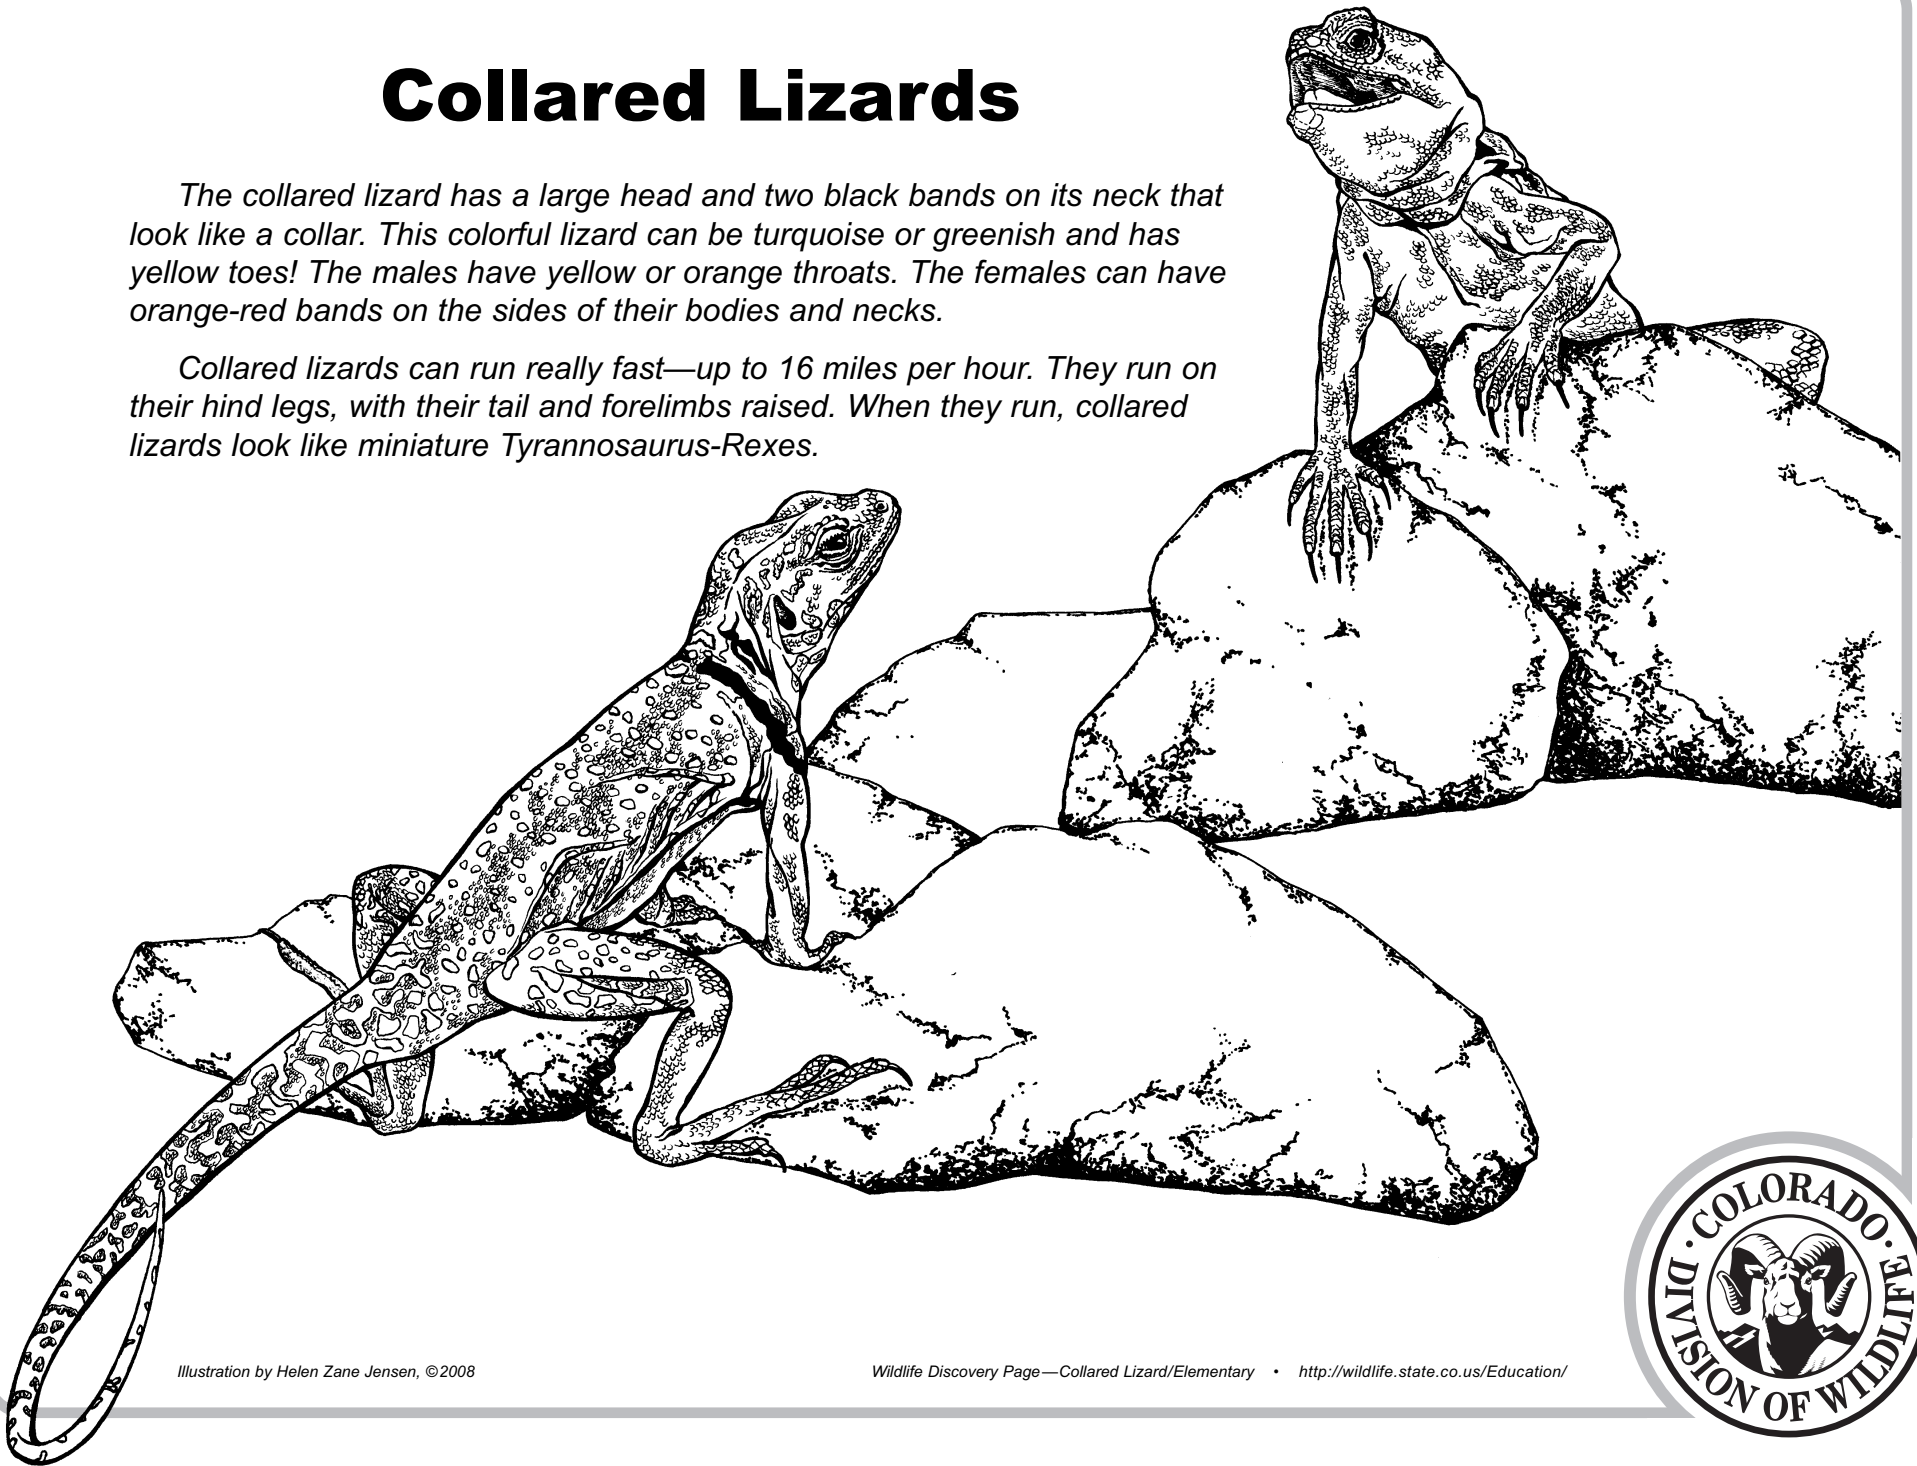

Illustration by Helen Zane Jensen, ©2008

Wildlife Discovery Page—Collared Lizard/Elementary • <http://wildlife.state.co.us/Education/>

